the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 5.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1995, compared with 4.5 million in 1980.

There is a growing emphasis on the importance of the public sector in providing services to the community, and in particular in providing services to the elderly. The public sector has been the main provider of social care services in the UK, and its role is expected to increase in the future.

A YEAR OF CHANGE

"We went to state in '78!" ... Crimsonaires to Pennsylvania ... no lockers ... "We have to move this class again" ... Advanced biology to Florida ... "How do you expect us to learn in this noise?" ... GO SKINS!! ... The community rallied behind the teams ... "Where's Mr. Fiantt?" ... Mores scorned ... Big Red Fever ... "STUDENTS KEEP OUT" ... Girls basketball won sectional ... Seniors led the school in their final year and plan for the future ... "Who picked the wallpaper in this room?" ... Went to class with winter coats on ... Flexibility, adaptation ... No doors, no locks ... noise, noise, noise ... dust, dust, dust ...

How can one characterize a year that is stuck between times? The 1978-79 school year was in the middle ages ... between the beginning of the long awaited remodeling, and the end product.

How can one capture the essence of a year marked by the mess on construction and the ecstasy of a state championship football team?

Students, don't keep out ... Remember the year that found us "Between Times" ... Living it and enjoying it fully.

School Came Alive With Spirit

After the Spirit Week points were tallied up between classes, the seniors scored first, juniors second, and the sophomores followed with third. The classes were judged on enthusiasm and participation in the week's activities. During the Homecoming game's half-time festivities, each of the losing class presidents were presented with a pie in the face.

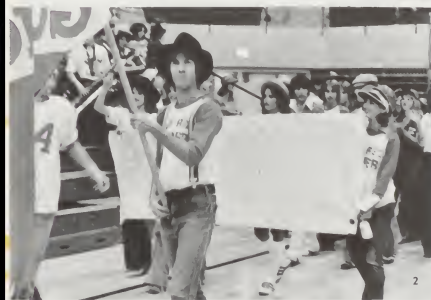

Although the seniors won the class competition, the entire student body showed enough spirit to edge the football team onto a 14-12 homecoming victory over DeKalb.

The week's activities consisted of Bruised Baron Day, Jock Day, Dress-up Day, Clashing Clothes and Sunglasses Day, and summing up the week on Friday was Big Red and Hat Day.

All through the week the students spirit took many forms. We saw Mark Danforth and Phil Bailey dressed up as nurses, while Jeff Roth and Craig Harris were in wheel chairs. And of course Jock Day wouldn't be the same without four guy cheerleaders.

This year the student body showed more enthusiasm, participation, and spirit than in the past number of years.

1. Becky Fisher got into the spirit by dressing up for "clashing clothes day". 2. Juniors tugged their way to a second place in the class competition. 3. Even after dismissal, the students showed their enthusiasm. 2. The "Go Big Red" flag led the seniors into the gym as they showed that "seniors do it better". 3. Walter Drapeza had a premonition that G.H.S. was number 1. 4. "Bruised Baron" day brought a shock to G.H.S. as Mark Danforth and Phil Bailey dressed up as nurses and cared for Craig Harris and Jeff Roth.

Penny Reigns And G.H.S. Wins

The spirit at G.H.S. was a hot spot during homecoming week. Homecoming candidates and representatives were chosen from each class. Candidates from the senior class were Penny Buss and escort Danny Kreager, Marla Troyer and escort Dennis Howard, and Patti Teall and her escort Mike Edwards.

Representing the underclassmen were junior Nancy Troy, escorted by Bob Nichols, and sophomore Sandy Yoder who was escorted by Chris Graff.

The end of the game found Penny the queen and our Goshen Redskins victorious over Dekalb. The final score of the game was 14-12.

1. Sophomore candidate Sandy Yoder, senior queen candidates Marla Troyer, Penny Buss, and Patti Teall, and junior candidate Nancy Troy. 2. The court listened to the applause of the crowd after Penny's coronation. 1. Murray Stiegeman, junior class president, got a pie in the face from senior class president, Mark Danforth. 2. Mark Danforth led seniors in a cheer at a pep session. 3. Homecoming queen Penny Buss and her escort, Danny Kreeger. 4. Second quarter action at the homecoming game.

Keep Out . . Men Working

Beginning in the spring of 1978, the long awaited and planned for construction project got underway. This project not only changed the building, but the typical lives of high school students as well. Throughout the year, students sidestepped boxes, construction materials, and workers to get to their classes. They shivered in barely heated rooms, walked outside to many of their classes, and stayed clear of the areas marked "STUDENTS KEEP OUT". They learned to ignore the ear-splitting noise of construction tools, found they were capable of carrying whole locker's contents from class to class, and avoided especially dusty or drippy places.

Sometimes it was hard to believe that education was actually taking place, but students and faculty alike adapted very well. With laughter, acceptance, and a spirit of camaraderie, everyone calmly ignored or dealt with construction problems as they arose. It was worth it as we saw the school begin to take shape. By the end of the year, wallpaper was hung, bulletin boards were up, and restrooms were open. Brand new rooms were being used, and senior awards were presented in an almost completed auditorium.

The construction project dominated our school lives this year and caused many problems and changes. However, it was an experience that caused us to work together and laugh at problems; it was an experience we will not soon forget.

1. The halls were fenced off to keep students out of unsafe areas. 2. The corridor takes on a new look. 3. The workers carry a heavy pipe needed for the third floor plumbing. 4. The bulletin boards were installed after the wallpaper was hung. 1. A look at one of the partially finished new additions to G.H.S. 2. During the summer of 1978, many rooms lost their old ceilings. 3. Some jobs require being on your knees and a cigarette. 4. One of the workers levels his job.

Keys For Marine Biology

"When man learns that he, too, is a part of the marine ecological spectrum, and not the absolute ruler of it all, with no accounting for his action, responsible to no one but himself, given to greed and practicing waste — then, and only then will he be able to live with the wonders of nature instead of destroying them." (A. Rabinowitz)

With this in mind, the Biology II classes of G.H.S., students from Laurence North, and their faithful instructors set out on March 30, 1979, for Islamorada, Florida, to become a part of the marine ecological spectrum.

Throughout the week the students were required to classify 50 species of animals and 20 species of plants. Also required was an in depth study of a habitat, and 10 ecological profiles.

The week was not all work and no play. There was always time for a toss of the frisbee, sandlot basketball or a rousing game of volleyball (at low tide of course).

The week came to a close too soon. Friendships had started, the food was tasting good, the work was done and the fun could begin. As all experiences go, it had to end. The bus was loaded and they headed back north.

1. The marine biology class poses next to their bus. 2. Bonnie Bartel looks over her work. 3. Snorkling was one of the many activities the students took part in during the week. 4. Students relax and listen to a lecture. 5. Brothers Gary and Carl Weaver were two of the instructors for the trip. 6. Jeff Barner returns from specimen hunting. 7. Mr. Becker in his famous, ever present white hat. 8. Greta Burger returns from snorkeling. 1. A daily task was filling the holding tank with fresh sea water. 2. Greta Burger, Tom Bailey, and Bonnie Bartel wait patiently for the bus to leave on the last day in Florida. 3. A beautiful warm setting for class. 4. Garry Champ helps load the van and boat on the final day.

Sharing Cultures . . . Foreign Exchange

Farmlands and rolling hills of West Germany, the picturesque Swiss Alps, and the ancient history of Italy's largest city, Rome, are among the authentic surroundings experienced by four exchange students from Europe who spent their senior years at G.H.S.

Lucerne, Switzerland marked the home of Jens Lubben before he settled in Goshen with the James Bandy family. Jens enjoyed skiing and mountain climbing on the Alps, but when he came to Goshen, he picked up on our American football and played on the '78 state championship team. Jens was greatly impressed with the G.H.S. spirit and the excitement brought out by the football squad.

Thomas Wanja traveled to Goshen by way of Geneva, Switzerland, and spent his time in the Maple City with Dr. Owen Hess family. Thomas, like Jens, developed an interest in football and played for G.H.S. He also spent free time skate boarding and playing table tennis with his friends, two of his favorite pastimes.

With its historic architecture and the ancient ruins of Rome, Italy became the starting base for Roberto Vinciguerra's journey to the U.S. Roberto enjoyed the "freedom" of G.H.S. because his Roman system was much different. In Italy, Roberto had to choose a particular field of study and follow it all through high school. His school had only 400 students from 9th through 12th grade, so G.H.S. must have been quite an experience. Roberto also participated on the football team and earned an athletic letter for his effort.

Second semester brought Claudia Liedtke to Goshen after spending first semester in Illinois. Claudia came from Kiel, West Germany. Her hobbies included ceramics, music, knitting and reading. Claudia enjoyed the friendly atmosphere of G.H.S., its students and teachers. Claudia stayed with the Greig Weaver family.

The exchange students added a different dimension to life at G.H.S.; they shared with us a glimpse of their cultures. In return, they learned from and enjoyed life in America for the year.

1. Jens and Thomas had much in common: they were from the same country, spoke the same language, were avid skiers, and enjoyed their year at G.H.S. 2. Jens celebrated with other fans on the bus home after the state championship game. 1. Claudia enjoyed and did well in her art classes. 2. Roberto added his talents as percussionist and guitar player to the jazz band. 3. Jens, as usual, anything but shy.

Goshen Relays — Rain Again!

Goshen Relays Court: Juniors Amy Koteck and Gerry Davis; Seniors Mary Martilla, Scott Miller, Jenny Owens, Kevin Miller, Stephanie Lukeman and Dennis Howard; Sophomores Nancy Miller and David Slabaugh.

The 38th annual Goshen Relays were held in a slightly cold drizzle, but the meet was still highly competitive. Jenny Owens was crowned queen of the relays before the large crowd.

In Class A competition, Fort Wayne Snider's Panthers ran away with their second Relays title. In Class B, the Concord Minutemen took their first ever championship trophy.

Goshen placed fourth with 62½ points, just behind Northwood's 70½. Junior Ron Gillis won the pole vault event with a 12 foot 8 inch effort. The Redskin foursome of Jon Reber, Kevin Miller, Dennis Howard and Craig Harris won second place in the sprint medley and Rich Minier placed second in the mile run.

Goshen placed no worse than third in all the relays.

In the field events, Walter Drapeza paced the Skins with a third place in the long jump. Senior Jerry Clingerman took a fourth in the discus and Dave Faulkner tied for a fifth place in the high jump.

1. The Goshen Relays royalty. 2. The crowd came prepared this year — umbrellas dotted the stands. 3. Relays queen Jenny Owens and escort Kevin Miller. 1. Scott Miller's effort shows as he completes his event. 2. Rich Minier, Greg Weeden, and friends take a break.

Friendship Week Highlights Students

Performances by students highlighted the traditional friendship week convocations. Monday, students participated in an impromptu dramatic skit prepared by the Thespians. Representatives from each class participated in a "game show". They were put in a hypothetical situation concerning friendship and judged according to their decisions.

The Crimsonaires and the Jazz Ensemble performed for the student body on Wednesday. The Jazz Ensemble also performed for the Senior Citizen luncheon, which capped Wednesday's agenda.

The week was concluded on Friday with a campaign convocation for the underclassmen. During this convocation, nominees for class and student council presidencies gave campaign speeches. The seniors enjoyed free refreshments and discussed end of the year plans during this time in the cafeteria.

1. The Crimsonaires give their annual performance for the student body. 2. Steve Lambright gives his campaign speech for the junior class presidency. 1. The seniors listen to Mrs. Dwyer, one of the senior class advisors, while she explains plans for graduation. 2. The juniors listen to the campaign speeches on Friday. 3. The jazz band plays contemporary jazz pieces for the student body. 4. Steve Miller campaigns for the senior class presidency.

Moonlight On The Bay

"Moonlight on the Bay" was the theme for the '78-'79 prom which was held in the high school gym. Approximately 250 people who participated found themselves on the bay in San Francisco, enjoying refreshments on Fisherman's Wharf, looking out across the Pacific to sight sailboats and ships. A lighthouse accented these decorations to make the setting complete. The couples danced to the sounds of I.C. Hott.

After the prom, the students enjoyed "FM," a movie shown at Goshen Theater, and pizza was served by parents at the First English Lutheran Church in Goshen.

Steve Conder and Karen Penrod served as this year's co-chairmen and Jane Ingold headed the decoration committee.

Prom

Morp

The "morp" was a new social event at Goshen this year. Despite the fact that the date was changed, several people enjoyed the evening of disco dancing. The morp was held the week after the prom, and everything was supposed to be backwards — the girls were to ask the guys and take them out for a change.

1. Keith Wilden and Sue Haney discuss the evening's events. 2. A typical table setting at the prom: lilacs and a program. 3. John Bowers and Beth Miller were one of the approximately 125 couples who went to the prom. 4. Three couples take a break from the dancing to talk next to a sailboat on the bay. 1 and 2. Lynn Gosey and her date show off their disco dancing skills. 3. A stereo takes the place of a band on morp night. 4. Kim Lechner and Tim Gardner sit out a dance.

Seniors On Stage

Senior Follies, the traditional "good-bye" from the senior class was exceptionally unique this year. Without the use of the auditorium, the class had the added job of constructing a stage in the gym. Approximately 70 seniors were actively involved in the program, and almost all their classmates came to cheer and jeer at their performances. Highlights of the evening included skits by "The Loud Family" and "The Cone Heads," "Commercials" and spot fillers kept the audience entertained between skits. During the intermission, a door prize was awarded to Mr. Fiandt. The "prize" was an actual door from the construction project and had "Students Keep Out" printed on it. It was signed by all the seniors who took part in the Follies.

1. Jed "The Ted Nugent" Roll played for a receptive audience. 2. The senior Crim-sonaires broke their traditional formation for this song. 1. Darla Ferguson, the anonymous giggler, caused the whole audience to giggle, too. 2. Mike Edwards prepares to accompany Jed Roll, Roman Sawchuk, and Vic Maximenko on their two numbers. 3. "Macho men" Jackie Porscharsky, Mary Martilla, and Greta Burger mock a popular singing group, The Village People.

Crimsonaires To Pennsylvania

The Crimsonaires five day tour of Pennsylvania began Wednesday April 4, when their chartered bus left Goshen for Souderton, Pennsylvania.

Thursday was spent performing at Christopher Dock Mennonite High School, and Devereast Fountain, which is a girls school for the retarded. That evening they relaxed by visiting Valley Forge.

Friday the Crimsonaires presented programs for the Indian Valley Jr. High and High School. To highlight Friday, the group dined at Trainers restaurant.

Saturday the group went sightseeing in Philadelphia, visiting Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell. On returning to Souderton that evening they presented a concert for the public.

On Sunday, their final day, they sang for the Sunday morning worship service of the Souderton Mennonite Church. They were thanked graciously by the ladies of the church who prepared a large meal for them and then sent them on their way home to Goshen.

227 Graduated

The 103rd annual commencement at Goshen High School was held June 3, 1979, on Foreman Field. The weather was sunny and warm, and the 227 graduates listened happily and with nostalgia as their names were called to receive their diplomas. The speaker, introduced by class president Mark Danforth, was Mr. Dave Roevee, Evangelist. The diplomas were awarded by Carol Summy, school board president. The ceremony was concluded with the senior choir members singing "You've Got A Friend", a poem entitled "Graduation" by Patti Teall, and the benediction was given by Mel Bontrager.

1. The class marches to their seats to the music of the processional. 2. Jim Beck smiles after he receives his diploma. 3. The junior class officers lead the seniors to their seats. 4. ACADEMICS

Learning . . . In And Out

Of The Classroom

Learning — academics — is what school is all about. But not all the learning (and sometimes not the most important learning) takes place in the classroom under a teacher's guidance.

Learning is the result of interaction between people and contemplation within one's self. The "reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic" were important this year, but our learning took on other aspects. The construction project forced us to learn flexibility, adaptation, and concentration. Our friends taught us how to relate to people, have fun, and how to deal with problems. Our teachers gave us their subject matter and themselves. We learned — not only in the classroom, but also in the classroom of life at G.H.S.

Involving Students . . .

The physical education department developed and put into practice a new curriculum this year. This change offered sophomore students a choice in learning a variety of lifetime skills. The department offered courses such as swimming, badminton, volleyball, and softball — skills that the students would be able to use in their future lives. One particularly popular section was the dance section, which all students were required to complete. Disco dancing was taught along with traditional folk dances. Student and faculty response to this new program was quite positive.

The science department this year was not as disrupted as others by the construction project. They stayed in their rooms until the end of the school year when rebuilding started in earnest on the third floor. Students participated in chemistry, physics, general science, and biology classes, adding to their knowledge of the world around themselves.

1. Don Ogle, head of the phys. ed. department, prepares to give instructions to his class. 2 and 3. Kathy Sibal shows her hitting and fielding techniques in a softball game. 1. Dennis Miller studies electricity in a physics class. 2. Karry Cuthbert studies closely the progress of his chemistry experiment. 3. Phil Metzler and Tom Hoover record their experimental findings.

Science And Phys. Ed.

First Year For CAPPS

Besides the typical moves due to the construction project, the English department experienced other changes this year. CAPPS, or Comprehensive Assessment Program Planning System, was tried out for the first time. CAPPS is a test that measures the personal skill of the student in English, math, science, and history. Each student in 3rd, 6th, 8th, and 10th grades was tested in English this year according to the regulations of this state mandated program.

1. Ms. Thomas marks grades in her book after a student gave a speech. 2. Mr. Cartwright introduces a story to his writing class by reading a few paragraphs aloud. 3. Jeff Eaton is engrossed in a story. 4. Faith Showers, Mark Behman, and Becki Smith rehearse for their one act play in a theater class. 1. Penny Sharp diligently works on her art project. 2. Mr. Nelson spent hours helping students. 3. Randy Gill expresses himself. 4. Cletus Yoder perfers cars to people.

Art Stresses Creativity

Adding a touch of color to construction wrecked halls, students in the art classes this year displayed their work frequently. Students also were encouraged to enter their work in contests. Ralph Troyer brought home a first place award from a state wide contest for a sculpture he created.

Mr. Nick Nelson, a new teacher to Goshen, brought a philosophy based on individual achievement to his classes. He feels that art is important in helping build self esteem, and encouraged students to do as well as they could in their art and craft projects.

Business Department Grows

Every year the business department grows considerably in size. The world is expanding into the business world, therefore more and more students are enrolling in the business classes.

Noise was cited as the biggest problem caused by the construction project. When done, the business department will have larger rooms, more typewriters, and will be moved to the third floor.

OEA, Office Educational Association, under the supervision of newcomer, Mrs. Ann Shomber, has doubled in size over the past few years. This is a program that teaches seniors office skills while on the job. The students take classes at the high school, and also are placed in a job in the community. The business department is now in the process of setting up a laboratory co-op room which will add to and change the OEA program. This room will be equipped with office style furniture and it is hoped that it will be available for the next school year.

"I Feel A Song Comin' On"

"I Feel A Song Comin' On" and "Mood Indigo" are two of the traditional songs that the Crimsonaires have performed since the origination of the group. Although this year, under the direction of G. Merrill Swartley, the Crimsonaires may have started a new tradition. — a tour of Pennsylvania during spring break. Means of raising money for the trip were also new. They accomplished this by having a Bowl-A-Thon, selling jewelry, obtaining money from local businesses, and keeping the money paid to them for performances.

Due to the reconstruction of the high school auditorium, the annual Crimsonaire-Jazz Band concert was held in the Towncrest cafetorium. Other concerts included performances for the student body, civic organizations, banquets and churches. Their final concert was held at Goshen College.

The group was made up of 20 singers who auditioned for a spot and the chance to perform with the Crimsonaires. The group included John Bowers, Terri Brandt, Georganne Buckingham, Gerry Davis, Robin Davis, Mike Gardner, Chip Harley, Jane Holden, Jeff Jones, Jeff Johnson, Steph Lukeman, Willie Miller, Erin Neuman, Jon Reber, Jed Roll, Jill Slabaugh, Marti Snyder, Mike Towne, Angie Vanderheyden, and Beth VanKlaren. The rhythm section was composed of Kaye Saunders on piano, Vic Maximenko on bass guitar, and Steve Stuckey and Tim Boshart on drums.

Choir Performed

The Junior-Senior and Sophomore Choirs, under the direction of G. Merrill Swartley, held three major concerts this year. The first concert was a get-acquainted family night. Choir members and their families enjoyed a potluck supper in the cafeteria. The choirs gave a mini-concert for their families after the meal.

The other two concerts were the Christmas Concert and the Spring Concert. These were both performed at the First Methodist Church in Goshen, as the school auditorium was unavailable due to the construction project.

Besides these three concerts, the Junior-Senior Choir performed Schubert's "Mass in G" at a number of local churches. Mike Gardner won the Orion Award as the outstanding senior vocalist. A number of letter and jacket awards were also given.

Beat Of A Different Drummer . . .

"Galaxy", "Three Way Blues", and "Fish" were just a few of the songs the G.H.S. Jazz Ensemble performed in the 78-79 school year.

Throughout the year the Jazz Band performed for Towncrest Jr. High, a music parents meeting and their annual Jazz Band-Crimsonaires concert. Due to the reconstruction of the auditorium, the annual concert had to be relocated in the Towncrest cafetorium. The highlight of the year was getting a first division rating at contest.

Orchestra

This year's orchestra, under the direction of Brian Kirk, gave four performances. With the exception of one performance, all were given with nearby schools. Two were given with Bethany, one with Wawasee and Bethany, and the senior concert was given with the band. This year's orchestra consisted of 19 members.

A quartet composed of Anita Stoltfus, Teresa Shrock, Kathy Kneipple and Marilyn Joldersma performed with the high school choirs for their concerts. This quartet also accompanied the Crimsonaires on their trip to Pennsylvania.

The Chamber Orchestra, which is composed of a selected few members of the orchestra, attended state contest and received a first division rating. The Chamber Orchestra held eight performances this year with the Bethany Chamber Orchestra.

According to Mr. Kirk, this year was highly successful despite the problems construction presented. He commented, "I appreciated the way my students worked through the year despite many difficulties, making this year very successful anyway."

The 1978-79 G.H.S. marching band and pom pom corp had an exceptionally good year. They added spirit, music and color for the fans and players at the games. The band, under the directions of David Plank, received a second at contest, which they considered quite good as this was their first year under a new judging association. The pom pom corp, under the direction of Patty Dechant, was different this year in that there were 9 members instead of the traditional 16. Also, instead of doing new routines at each football game, they did the same one. However, when the basketball season rolled around, they had a new routine for each game.

This year's awards were received by Mike Edwards for Outstanding Marchman and outstanding percussionist; John Shoup received the outstanding sophomore award; and Ann Trenshaw received the award for outstanding corp person.

Foreign Language, Social Studies And

Spanish and French were the foreign languages taught at G.H.S. German was also offered, but the students travelled to Bethany High School daily for their classes. The French classes enjoyed a crepe day and the Spanish classes had a taco day.

The math and social studies departments seemed to progress as usual despite the problems the construction project posed. Mr. Harley, head of the social studies department stated, "We have lost the use of our library, and some of our flexibility, but in general the students have adjusted well and taken the problems in stride."

1. Mr. Rick Clark, sociology teacher, talks with Jackie Porcharsky. 2. students discuss and study a French translation. 3. Tomahawk Staffers Adapt

1. Cathy Phemister, editor during the first semester, contemplates a suggestion by a reporter. 2. Emily Springer, editor during the second semester, works on production of the Tomahawk. 3. Mr. Snyder, advisor, gives some constructive criticism. 1. The Tomahawk staff. 2. The start of a typical day: roll call and assignments.

"The Tomahawk has been in three locations since the beginning of the school year — the gym deck, third floor science room, and one end of the library. The students have done a tremendous job of working around the construction noise, dust, and other related problems," commented Mr. Snyder, advisor of the Tomahawk, when asked how the construction project had affected his journalism work. Another inconvenience was the location of the darkroom facilities. They were located off the school grounds.

The Tomahawk staff continued to print the news of the school, printing a newspaper approximately every two weeks. The quality of the paper remained constant and it was widely read by the students.

When asked what new changes he would be looking forward to, Mr. Snyder replied, "Journalism classes will move into the new structure on the second floor. The exciting part is the addition of a darkroom within the room and the construction of a typing table which is the length of one wall."

CRIMSON Staffers Learn And Work

"Under the apt leadership of editor Peggy Miller, the Crimson staff met and overcame diverse challenges this year," stated Ms. Sue Neeb, adviser to the Crimson staff. The construction project presented one main obstacle in that the darkroom was set up late and moved several times.

The staff spent the first few weeks of class learning the fundamentals of layout design and copy writing. They also chose a theme for the book and set up production guidelines. They then put their knowledge into action to produce the 1978-79 Crimson.

1. Members of the staff work on various tasks. 2. Editor Peggy Miller answers a question from a staff member. 3. Peggy Jones and Greg Weeden decide on captions for a layout. 1. Learning By Doing In

Jack Markin concentrates on assembling an appliance that is installed in the kitchen. 4. Danny Kreager works on perfecting his electrical skills. 5. Again moving dirt in preparation for cement. 1. This student literally gets into his work. 2. Mr. Peterson supervises the work of Jay Ingold and Rod Bixler. 3. Steve Taft and Chris Simmons discuss the next step in their work. 4. Dan Berkey concentrates on his job in auto mechanics.

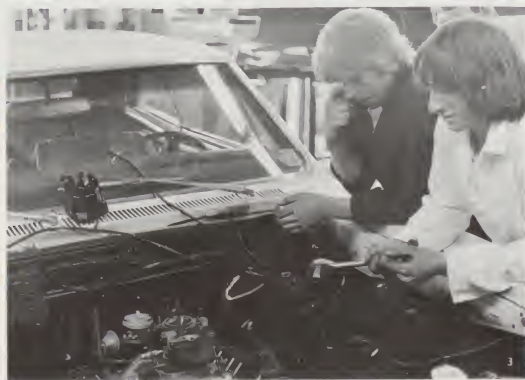

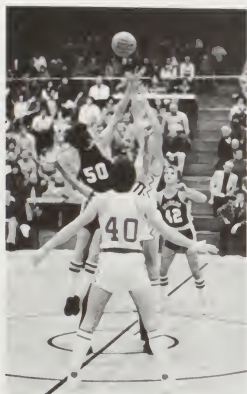

Building Trades And Industrial Arts

Building trades is a class-lab situation which allows students to learn the building trades by actually building a house. The students worked on the house every afternoon, learning a variety of skills. They put in the electrical and plumbing systems, poured cement, put up drywall, and painted; there was little they did not do on the house. The house will be sold and the profits used to finance a similar building next year.

The industrial arts department offered students another "hands-on" learning situation this year. They learned basic and more advanced skills in wood shop, metal shop and mechanical drawing, taking a variety of projects from planning through finishing stages. Auto mechanics students worked on cars that were brought in for work ranging from tune-ups to more complicated jobs. The department experienced no great drawbacks due to the construction project. They did experience a greater enrollment in their classes, though, and are looking forward to adding more classes and possibly another staff member in the future.

Goshen's "On" Season

A super year for the Redskin Football Team went like this:

Rochester — With Dan Berkey leading the way, Goshen beat the Zebras 20-13, with Berkey having 109 in the 2nd half. The first half was slow, but after the final gun sounded the skins had a 6-0 record and were 4-0 in conference play.

East Noble — Beating the Knights 16-6 the defense allowed only 24 net yards by the opposition. Leading the way were Mike Hunsberger, Steve Swihart, and Tom Bailey. Dan Berkey led the offense with another outstanding performance of 170 yards.

A history-making football season featured Goshen's first trip to the state AA playoffs, and the Redskins didn't stop until they brought home the 42-inch state championship trophy.

The Redskins accomplished the feat in record style by shutting out three opponents. They trimmed Homestead 19-0 for the District 5 title on Foreman Field, then they whipped previously unbeaten Delta 27-0 for the regional crown on Foreman, before going to Warren Central High School of Indianapolis to blank Brownsburg 9-0 for the championship.

It was a very cold, windy night for the final game, but 3,000 Goshen fans made the trip and there was a huge welcome home in downtown Goshen for the champs who were paraded through town on a firetruck.

Goshen's defense was amazing in the playoffs, allowing Homestead only 82 total yards, Delta 122, and Brownsburg 35. Goshen rambled for 189 yards against Homestead, 386 against Delta and 94 against Brownsburg.

Senior linebacker Tom Bailey added frosting to the Goshen championship by bringing home the coveted Phil Eskew Award for mental attitude.

They performed a flag drill to the tune of the Olympic theme song. They also entertained fans during halftime with the traditional choreographed precision drills they were known for.

Pep Band Boosted Skins

"This is the best year we have ever had in pep band — the refs even mentioned that they enjoyed the music," stated Max Mault, the pep band director. According to Mr. Mault, the musicians must have professional and dedicated attitudes in order to form a good pep band. This year's band showed these attitudes and consistently gave excellent, spirit-building performances during the basketball games.

The pep band consisted of 45 high school students who rehearsed during their lunch hours three times weekly. They played up to date music, which the Booster Club helped them purchase this year.

Freshman Tracey Bailey had an 18-9 win/loss record and placed second in sectional competition. Randy Gill, previously a sectional and regional champion, suffered bad fortune and was not able to finish the season due to an ear injury.

The grapplers achieved a fourth place rating in the Northern Lakes Conference, a third in sectional competition, and a fourth at the regional tourney. At their annual banquet, Mark Wittrig and Roy Honey received the Most Valuable Wrestler awards and Mark Wittrig received the Paul Underwood Mental Attitude Award.

ORGANIZATIONS AND

ACTIVITIES

Student Council

The student council headed the student body during a very active year. Two students from each home room were elected as representatives both first and second semesters. They were led by Craig Harris, President, Becky Fisher, Vice President, and Patti Teal, Secretary. Mr. Milt Thomas and Mr. Randy Robertson were the faculty advisors.

The student council sponsored several spirit building, charitable, and money making projects. They planned the spirit and friendship week activities. They headed a drive for canned goods and money for the Clothe-A-Child project. They also organized a blood donor day at the high school. Their teacher appreciation gift, a breakfast, was prepared and served by the members. The coveted Spirit Award was presented to Mark Danforth by the student council this year.

At the end of each semester, the student council members enjoyed a pizza party as a reward for their labors for the student body and community.

1. Sympathies were definitely with the pig during a greased pig contest. 2. Senior boys display their spirit in a rather unconventional way. 3. CHEERLEADERS

Varsity Cheerleaders: Kathy Miller, Greta Spencer, Cinda Schwalm, Stephanie Lukeman (captain), and Karen Hardies.

J.V. Cheerleaders: Sonia Nofziger, Rebecca Moyer, Jodi Scott, and Wanda Miller

Screaming Redskins!!

The 1978-79 cheerleading squad set a goal of raising spirit at G.H.S. by using new ideas. Some of those new ideas were: raising money during the summer to buy slacks for the cold football games; new routines; and new spirit days. While the team was winning, the girls were yelling, and they continued that tradition throughout the year.

When the basketball season started, the squad gained numbers through the help of the cheerblock. Although not as big as in recent years, the cheerblock was a great help in supporting our teams.

Thespians And Art Club

Due to the reconstruction of the school's auditorium, the Thespians were unable to present a fall play or a spring musical as they always had in the past. Instead they did "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown" for local clubs and schools.

Having a new sponsor, Miss Jan Thomas, the Thespians also presented two skits for the student body. The first one was in the fall during Spirit Week. The other was late in the year for Friendship Week.

Artists At Their Work

The art club, directed by Nick Nelson, met on an almost weekly basis to work on different projects. Plans to build a sculpture to display in front of the school were put in the beginning stages this year. Other projects included painting a mural on the new art room wall, and painting store windows in downtown Goshen at Halloween time.

NHS, NFL, Sunshine Society

The National Forensic League had eight members this year, five of which were new. They took part in approximately ten meets under the direction of Jan Thomas, adviser. Two entries won first place at the district level, and went on to regionals. They were Michele Ruhling and Jeff Jones, who did a humorous duo, and Nancy Bost, who read poetry. The year was started with a trip to Ball State University for a combination speech clinic and speech meet.

Mayor Chisick was the featured speaker at the induction ceremony for the National Honor Society held on March 29. The 54 members in the NHS this year made up of 15% of the senior class and 5% of the junior class. According to Robert Mathews, faculty adviser, they are inducted on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service qualities. The money that the club made selling concessions was used partially for the NHS scholarship loan fund.

Mrs. Kim Kiser, adviser to the Sunshine Society, stated that the main function of the society is to help others, meeting needs whenever they are made evident to the club members. Therefore, much of the money they raised selling carnations on Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day was donated to charities. The club took part in several other activities. The members brought their fathers to Daddy Date Night, a potluck dinner. They also sponsored an Ideal Lady Tea. They gave teachers cookies on Valentine's Day, and sent cards to people in the hospital. The members worked in order to obtain sweaters, keys, or letters.

Thinking And Enjoying It

A UFO expert was one highlighted speaker this year at a science club activity. Other activities included a demonstration of a ham radio, a demonstration of different items in science cabinets, and a demonstration on stroboscopic effects.

Mr. Bowers, the science club advisor, said, "The major innovation moved meetings to nights. This caused renewed interests in science club, as more students could attend. It provided for a need for students who have a real interest in science."

The chess club met twice a month on Mondays at Mr. Blossers' house. They practiced playing chess to build up their skills. They didn't participate in any dual meets this year, but they did participate in the Regional Tournament at Arcenel Tech in Indianapolis on March 24.

The foreign language clubs had an active year. The French Club, under the direction of Mr. Bob Fancil, adviser, and Chris Weaver, president, sold candy to raise funds for their meetings. The meetings included a treasure hunt party and a panel discussion by former G.H.S. students who had traveled in Haiti.

Club members also enjoyed a Christmas party and at another meeting saw the film "Gigi." The year was climaxed by a trip to Johnell's, a French restaurant in Fort Wayne.

The Spanish Club did not have as many meetings this year as in the past years due to problems the construction project presented. They sold posters to raise money and enjoyed several taco parties. The highlight of the year for six club members and two advisers was a trip to Mexico during spring vacation. Mr. Carl Horneman, adviser, listed some of the trip's highlights as visits to Mexico City and Paxco. They also viewed cliff diver in Acapulco and climbed the Mayan pyramids. A bull fight, shopping trip, and visiting a disco rounded out the trip that was enjoyed by all who went.
